

We Survived Messabout III

Dick Herman 26 May 2005, 9:05 AM | Views: 4

Once again, All The Usual Suspects challenged the wilds of the Pacific Northwest. For eleven days the eight hearty souls challenged the rain gods, and successfully circumnavigated Salt Spring Island in the Canadian Gulf Islands.

The weather turned overcast and rainy the second day out and stayed that way until the last day. But what the rains take away, the winds give back. We had some great sailing and visited some great marinas.

While the weather was less than ideal, we just may have to do it again.